Making a complaint

Most problems can be resolved quickly and easily and our Operations Managers are available to listen. Ask for them at reception and we can deal with your concerns straight away.

You may wish to make a formal complaint in which case you can complain directly to the Practice or to the commissioner of Services for NHS England. They will ask for your consent to share your complaint with the Practice. Their policy is to pass the complaint back to us for resolution, but in some circumstances they may choose to investigate complaints themselves.

Complaints should be submitted

- within 12 months of the incident
- or within 12 months of you becoming aware of the matter

Please send a written complaint, accompanied by a complaint form available from reception, as soon as possible after the event, ideally within a few days, giving as much detail as you can. This helps us to establish what happened more easily. We can transcribe a verbal complaint should you have difficulty in preparing a written complaint.

Our contact details are on the reverse.

What happens next?

We strive to resolve complaints as soon as possible and will acknowledge receipt within three working days in writing, at which point we shall invite you to discuss the complaint further and decide on:

- The Handling of the complaint
- Timescales for responding
- Expectations and desired outcome, if unclear

If the case passes the timescale agreed without resolution we shall update you every 10 working days by the format agreed for handling the complaint.

When the investigations are complete, a final response will be sent to you.

Where your complaint involves more than one organisation (e.g. social services) we will liaise with that organisation so that you receive one coordinated reply. We may need your consent to do this.

The final response letter will include details of the result of your complaint and any learning which resulted.

You have the right to escalate the matter further if you remain dissatisfied with the response. The Ombudsman's details are on the reverse.

Complaining on behalf of someone else

We keep to the strict rules of medical and personal confidentiality. If you wish to make a complaint and are not the patient involved, we will require:

written consent of the patient to confirm that they are unhappy with their treatment and that we can deal with someone else about it.

- Where the patient is incapable of providing consent due to illness or accident it may still be possible to deal with the complaint. Please provide the precise details of the circumstances that prevent this in your covering letter.
- Please note that we are unable to discuss any issue relating to someone else without their express permission, which must be in writing, unless the circumstances above apply.
- We may still need to correspond directly with the patient, or may be able to deal directly with the third party. This depends on the wording of the authority provided.

Please complete the third party section of the complaint form, available from reception and our website.
